Der Hörspiegel review 12.9.2022, written by Christine Rubel, translation in English:

"The Finnish six-piece Okra Playground makes powerful Nordic folk with mostly self-written lyrics, which can be read in Finnish and English in the small booklet. They are critical texts that deal with current problems. Even if the singing is in Finnish, and it's extremely impressive, you can hardly escape the driving rhythms and the distinctive voices of the three singers. The first instrumental piece Itku sets the mood, but there are also ballads that are just beautiful. With violin, kantele, accordion, drums, electric bass and synthesizer, an impressive world of lament is created. The only flaw in the 36 minutes is that I would have liked to hear more."
